The survey measures the fastest growing private technology companies and those that are likely to go on flourishing even in an economic slowdown. Amsphere have shown an annual sales growth of 67.8% compared to 54.95% last year when they came 59th, making them one of the fastest expanding Software Testing consultancies in the UK.

“We are delighted to be recognised as one of the fastest growing private technology companies again,” said Ricky Shankar CEO of Amsphere. “It’s fantastic that a company who specialise in Delivery Assurance and Software Testing can make the list two years running. This shows that even in difficult times our clients continue to take the risks and issues associated with software quality very seriously.”

“I would like to thank all our customers, staff, associates and partners who have contributed to Amsphere’s success” he concluded.

Sunday Times Microsoft Tech Track 100 is researched and compiled by Fast Track, the Oxford based Research Company. It measures the fastest growing private technology, telecoms and digital media companies by their average sales growth over a three year period between 2005 and 2008.
